TEE AND TURF GOLF CLUB ENDS SEASON WITH 3rd ANNUAL BANQUET

Saturday, November 13, 1976, the Tee & Turf Golf Club held its Third Annual Awards Banquet at the Officers Beach Club at Fort Lewis. Awards for the Spring Tournament and the Club Championship were awarded to the winners. Other awards included the Most Improved Golfer for the Men and Ladies. An Inspirational Award was given to Robert Smith by the President Saul Arrington. The most improved were Charles Carrington and Mable Anderson. This year THE FACTS trophy was won by Terry Burlison. We would like to say thanks to all of the members and their guests that were present and those that could not make it. They missed a wonderful party.

The Tee & Turf Golf Club would like for you to swing with us in 1977. Renewal membership may be sent to the secretary or paid at the general membership meeting December 3, 1976. All members are asked to be present at this meeting. Election of officers will be the main event.

ARMS SALE TO SOUTH AFRICA

The Justice Department is investigating allegedly illegal shipments of handguns and rifles from two major U.S. arms manufacturers to sporting goods dealers in South Africa.

Chief Assistant U.S. Attorney H. James Pickerstein in New Haven, Conn., confirmed the investigation of Colt Industries, Inc., of Hartford and Olin Corporation, the patent firm of Winchester-Western International, of Stamford, Conn.

Pickerstein declined to furnish any details of the grand jury probe. Both companies said employees have been fired because of the sales and that the transactions had been reported to the government. The firms deny that senior executives knew of the shipments in advance.

The Olin firm said the sales to South Africa averaged $300,000 a year from 1972 through 1975. The United States has embargoed arms sales to South Africa since 1962 because of that nation's racial discrimination policy.

Most likely there are other American firms shipping firearms to South Africa and which should be included in the government's investigation of illegal transactions. How far Washington is willing to pursue this matter is a question that has yet to be determined. In the present climate of friendly relations with South Africa, a serious prohibition of private industries' arms sales is improbable. RIGHT ON!

Portland, Tacoma Urban League Chapters Receive Funding for Training

A total of 3,547 disadvantaged minority youth and semiskilled construction workers will be prepared for building and construction trade jobs by the National Urban League (NUL) under a $5,711,753 contract renewal under Title III of the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act (CETA). The contract continues for another year an apprenticewhip and journeyman outreach program the NUL has conducted since 1967.

Portland and Tacoma NUL chapters will receive $173,000 and $145,000 respectively under the contract apportionment. The two Pacific Northwest cities are among 20 in the Nation which conduct NUL projects for the recruitment and placement of women in apprenticeships.

League chapters are expected to place about 3,157 youths nationwide in apprenticeship programs after 10 weeks of intensive tutoring. The classes are keyed to apprenticeship examination announcements in specific construction trades.

Many of the tutors are craftworkers from various trades. The League will help another 390 workers upgrade their skills to qualify as journeymen in their trades.

The apprentice placement goal for Portland is 60. For journeymen, it is also 60. Tacoma's apprentice goal is 50; for journeymen it is 65.

Socialist Educational Conference to be Held

"Another View of the Bicentennial" will be the theme of a Socialist Educational Conference, to be held at Tacoma Community College-Library Conference Room, Building 1, November 19-20.

Stephanie Coontz will be the speaker at the first session of the Conference, at 8:00 p.m., Fridat night. Ms. Coontz was a well-known antiwar activist in the Northwest during the '60s, and presently teaches at The Evergreen State College. She will speak on, "Does America Need Another Revolution?"

On Saturday, the conference will continue at 11:00 a.m. with Carmen Maymi speaking on "200 Years of Racism is Enough: The Connection Between Black Liberation and Socialism." Ms. Maymi has been active in the Black and Puerto Rican Liberation Movements both in Seattle and New York City.

The second session on Saturday will be at 2:00 p.m. Gale Shangold will speak on "Feminism and Socialism" or "What Did the 'Founding Fathers' Ever Do For Women". Ms. Shangold has been active in the abortion rights movement and in the Washington State Coalition for the Federal Equal Rights Amendment.

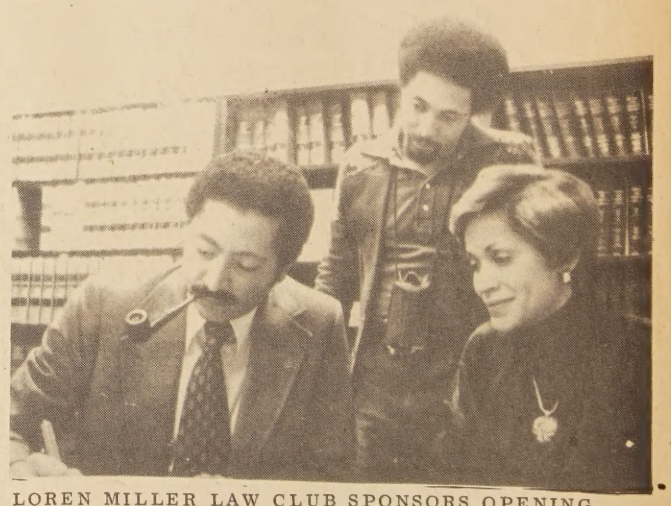
The Conference is open to the public.

Notice

Members of the community are invited to sell their handmade items at Tacoma Community College's plant, pottery, photo, bake and crafts sale December 3 in Building 15 on the campus.

Booths can be booked by calling Norma Hamilton at 756-5134. The sale is set for 11:30 a.m. to 7 p.m.

Black Arts-West Moves to 2nd Stage With "Wine-Seller"



LOREN MILLER LAW CLUB SPONSORS OPENING NIGHT OF WHAT THE WINE SELLERS BUY. Lem Howell and Symone B. Scales (seated) of the Loren Miller Law Club and Buddy Butler, Artistic Director of Black Arts/West sign sponsorship agreement of WHAT THE WINE SELLERS BUY for the November 19th performance at 2nd Stage (1419 8th Ave.)

Black Arts/West Theatre will open the first of four productions at 2nd Stage Theatre on Saturday, November 20, 1976. The first production is the award-winning WHAT THE WINE-SELLERS BUY by Ron Milner.

"...WINE-SELLERS is about manhood -- Black manhood: what it is and what it is not...the play eschews the themes and conflicts of yesteryear: there is neither black nihilism, despair and hopelessness, nor the mock-epic battle between pitiful black and ruthless white...a black love story..."

This northwest premiere will feature local actors along with Robert Stephens, guest actor from New York. Also making his acting debut with Black Arts/West is James Fair (Company Manager with BA/W) who also comes from the New York Theatre circuit. The production is directed by Buddy Butler with Sets and Lights by Bruce Brittingham and Costumes by Ruby Taylor. "Wine-Sellers" will run through December 12 with performances each Wednesday through Sunday at 8:00 p.m. For further information call: 447-4651 or 447-4652 (Ticket Sales) or 329-4111 or 447-4653 (General Information).

VOLUNTEERS NEEDED
As usual, the Boys' Club needs some adult volunteers to run programs at the Boys' Club. We are specifically looking for help in the Woodshop program. But anyone with specific interest in other areas is welcome. Please contact the Boys' Club at 272-3044 right away. It would be greatly appreciated if you could spend some time each week instructing our members. Your help is really needed.

McChord Thursday Tours

McChord Air Force Base will be conducting guided tours of the installation each Thursday for individuals wishing to see the base and learn of its mission, according to the base Information Office.
Those wishing to take the tour, starting at 1:00 p.m. each Thursday, must obtain a ticket from the Lakewood, Tacoma, Olympia or Seattle Chamber of Commerce.
The ticket will admit the holder through the Main Gate (Bridgeport Way S.W.), where the individual will be instructed to drive to the Civilian Personnel Office parking lot (Building 773) and board an Air Force bus for the three-hour tour.
The tour will include a drive around the base and a visit to a C-141 Starlifter and a C-130 Hercules, both four engine cargo/personnel carriers. Flying officers will be available to conduct this portion of the tour and answer questions.
The base is located approximately ten miles south of Tacoma, just off I-5, and is the home of the Military Airlift Command's 62d Military Airlift Wing, North American Defense Command's 25th NORAD Region and the Aerospace Command's 318th Fighter Interceptor squadron.

Previews of Progress to be Shown in Tacoma Schools

THE MOON ROVER – A model unmanned Moon Rover shown in action in this "fish-eye" time exposure demonstrates one method of harnessing the tremendous energy in sunlight. It is one of nine science-in-action demonstrations in General Motors live science show "Previews of Progress" now appearing in this area. The ten button-like solar cells on the model convert light energy into electrical energy to move the model vehicle. A 300-watt lamp simulates the sun. The admission-free, non-technical Previews presentation spotlights the many vocational and career opportunities available in science and engineering and appears before more than one million students and adults each year.

Local students will get a peek at the future when General Motors national assembly programs, Previews of Progress appears in the Tacoma area.

According to General Motors President Elliott M. Estes, the non-commercial show "seeks to inspire more student interest in science, engineering, and related technical and vocational careers to provide the trained talent America needs to keep pace with the promise of the future."

Previews of Progress demonstrations depict work being done today in America's research laboratories and point out the contributions of research to modern living. The live show is in non-technical language.

More than 30 million students and adults in the United States have seen Previews since 1946. Millions more have seen the GM show in Canada and 25 foreign countries, including special presentations made overseas at the request of the U.S. Department of Commerce.

Featured in the s how is explanation and demonstration of a catalytic converter, a device used to reduce automobile related exhaust pollutants. Based on extensive research and engineering, GM believes the catalytic converter is the best choice of alternatives at this time for meeting federal requirements because it reduces emissions of pollutants while also permitting improvements in fuel economy and driveability of automobiles.

Another demonstration uses a laser beam to translate the sounds we hear into visual patterns of light.

In all, students will see nine live examples of research-in-action.

Previews has received wide acclaim from educators and civic organizations for its efforts in encouraging more student interest in science, engineering, and related vocational careers.

"MAN-MADE" MOLECULES – Synthetic rubber produced in only 60 seconds is one of the dramatic demonstrations in General Motors live science assembly program, "Previews of Progress." The lecturer mixes two liquids in a pop bottle, shakes well, and out jumps a mass of synthetic rubber 15 times the volume of the bottle. The jumping rubber experiment is one of nine sequences in the show which dramatize new materials and products made possible by research in science and engineering. The admission-free, 40-minute program dramatizes the wonders of research in non-technical terms before one million American students and adults annually.

Department of Human Development Solicits Transportation Input

The Department of Human Development is soliciting input from interested senior citizens and handicapped persons to aid in developing its comprehensive transportation plan to be submitted to the City Council.

The Department of Human Development will hold five briefing sessions throughout the City. The dates and places for the briefings are:

Wednesday, Nov. 17, 3:30 p.m., South Park Center
Monday, Nov. 22, Noon, First Lutheran Church
Tuesday, Nov. 23, 11:00 a.m., Central Area Senior Center
Wednesday, Nov. 24, 12:30 p.m., McKinley Park Church
Monday, Nov. 29, 1:00 p.m., Fern Hill Center
Tuesday, Nov. 30, 12:15 p.m., Hope Lutheran Church

The briefings will give the seniors and the handicapped the opportunity to discuss their transportation needs and to offer suggestions as to how those needs may be best met.

METRIC SYSTEM SIMPLIFIES

Money Management Tip from the Washington Society of Certified Public Accountants: Will a changeover to the metric system reduce the number of container sizes for retail goods? That's what's happening in the liquor industry, which will make the change in October after which it will cut back to only six bottle sizes instead of 40.

Defeat stings women pols all over

WASHINGTON (UPI) -- Women political leaders were severely disppointed by the generally poor showing that made femal candidates made in statewide and congressional contests in the 1976 elections.

Women failed to put even one of their number in the Senate, lost a House seat and won only six statewide races, one of them a governorship. They also made only modest gains in state legislative seats.

"We're making progress," Betsey Wright of the National Women's Education Fund said Wednesday. "But this particular brand of progress is too slow."

Ms. Wright said women candidates continue to be plauged with fund-raising problems. "There is a double standard under which men are given the benefit of the doubt, but it is assumed that women candidated cannot win," she said.

Fredi Wechsler of National Women's Political Caucus blamed the 1976 results on the political parties' habit of nominating women to oppose unbeatable incumbents.

But neithe, of these women would characterize any of the results as a setback for women. Even a net loss of one seat in the House, Ms. Wright said, was "just quibbling."

The biggest gain for women was the election of Democrat Dixy Lee Ray as governor of Washington, the second woman to be elected governor of her own.

Women's rights advocates also won state referenda on the Equal Rights Amendment. Massachusetts voters ratified a state ERA and Colorado refused to repeal their endorsement of the amendment.

Probably the most embarassing of the defeats was in Montana, where Democrat Georgia Ruth Rice was defeated narrowly by John Deeney for superintendent of public instruction. That job has been held by a woman for the last 60 years, and Deeney's campaign touched on the idea of reverse discrimination.

Link unemployment to suicides, murder

The Joint Economics Committee released a study which indicates that a substantial number of murders, deaths and suicides from 1970 to 1975 are related to an increase in unemployment in 1970.

The findings are based on the work of Prof. M. Harvey Brenner, of Johns Hopkins University, who has been studying the relationship between unemployment and health patterns for almost 15 years. The study is based on an analysis of 40 years of stastistics for the United States, including the patterns of health and unemployment in three states, and the relationship between such factors in other developed countries.

The study shows a statistical correlation but not a direct cause and effect relationship, the doctor warns. It does, however, show a direct link between fluctuations in unemployment, illness and criminal behavior. Dr. Brenner stuided the effects of unemployment, inflation and real per-captia income on the different health factors but he could only find the same correlations for inflations and real per-captia income thathe could find for unemployment.

The study, which started last December, looked at stress indicators from the end of the Depression in the 1930's through 1973 and found a relationship to the unemployment rate that affects all ages, both sexes, for people of all races.

Give black unemployment figures

WASHINGTON -- The jobless rate for black workers edged down to 12.7 percent in September from 13.6 percent in August, The U.S. Department's Bureau of Labor Statistics reported.

The rate for white workers, on the other hand, was 7.1 percent for the third consecutive month.

On a national basic, the bureau reported that both unemployment and total employment were little changed in September.

The overall rate of unemployment was 7.8 percent, about the same as in the prior 2 months but above this year's low of 7.3 percent reached in May.

Total employment -- as measured by the monthly survey of households -- also remained at about the same level for the second straight month: 87.8 million persons. The September employed total was 3.7 million above the March 1975 recession low, an average monthly gain of 206,000.

Nonfarm payroll employment -- as measured by the monthly survey of establishments -- did continue to rise in September, moving up by 24,000 to 79.6 million. As estimated 100,000 of rhia increase was accounted for by the return of striking worker to their jobs. The payroll job coul was up 3.2 million from its June 1975 low.

Both the number of persons unemployed and the unemployment rate were about unchanged in September. Unemployment totaled 7.4 million, seasonally adjusted, compared with 7.5 million in August. The rate of unemployment -- the proportion of the labor force looking for work -- was 7.8 percent; it has been 7.9 percent in August and 7.8 percent in July.

Despite the stability in overall joblessness, there were divergent movements among several major labor force groups. The unemployment rate for teenagers fell from 19.7 to 18.6 percent, following a rise of similiar magnitude in August. Countering this decline was a small rise in the jobless rate for adult men, which returned to the July level of 6.1 percent.

Rule news media have access to jails

LOS ANGELES, -- A Federal appeals court has upheld the right of the news media to greater access to state jails and prisons than that granted the public.

The ruling by a three-member United States Court of Appeals for the Ninth Circuit affirms a 1975 decision by a Federal judge in San Francisco concerning the Alameda County prison at Santa Rita. The case involved investigation of jail conditions by a television station after an inmate's suicide.

Until the ruling by the late Judge Oliver Carter, officials had allowed reporters to tour only those areas of the facility open to the public. But the appelate court, in a decision by Judge Harry Pregerson, said "the access needs of the news media and the public differ. Media access, on reasonable notice, may be desirable in the wake of a newsworthy event, while the interest of the public in observing jail conditions may be satisfied by formal, scheduled tours."

The court held, however, that officials could limit the news media's access when jail security was threatened, and could make reasonable restrictions on the time, place and manner of access.

Maddox to support Carter when 'right'

ATLANTA, -- Lester G. Maddox, the American Independent Party's Presidential candidate, says he will "support (Jimmy) Carter on the issues I think he is correct on, but I'll continue to oppose him when I think he's wrong."

Maddox, Mr. Carter's nemesis when the future President was Governor of Georgia and Mr. Maddox was Lieutenant Governor, said yesterday that when he woke up Tuesday morning he told his wife and son that "Carter was going to win" the election.

Maddox predicted Monday that President Ford would win by "2 to 5 percent of the popular vote," but he said that on Tuesday he changed his mind. He said that when Mr. Carter announced in 1974 that he intended to seek the Presidency, "I didn't laugh like all the others because I knew he had a tremendous amount of energy and was a good campaigner."

Maddox, also a former Gerogia Governor, was back at work in his Atlanta restaurant Wednesday.

Accuse CORE with harassment in Alaska

JUNEAU, Alaska, -- Alaska has accused the Congress of Racial Equality of trying to harass and threaten businessmen into buying ads in a CORE magazine, the attorney general's office said today.

The unfair trade practices suit filed by the state in Superior Court seeks an injunction of a $5,000 fine against he civil rights group.

CORE's national director, Roy Innis of New York City, and Charles Cook of Los angeles, the Western regional director, were ordered in a court summons to respond to the suit within 40 days.

The suit centers on allegedly illegal efforts by CORE to put pressure on Alaska businessmen by telephone and mail for advertising space in the "Equal Apportunity Journal."

It accused CORE salesmen of using "false, deceptive and misleading" statements in trying to sell ads and employing "abusive language and threats" against companies that refused to purchase advertisements.

Asst. Atty. Gen. Bruce M. Bothelho said the suit was based on complaints from 10 businessmen, mostly contractors and flying service operators.

Minimum pay urged for patients

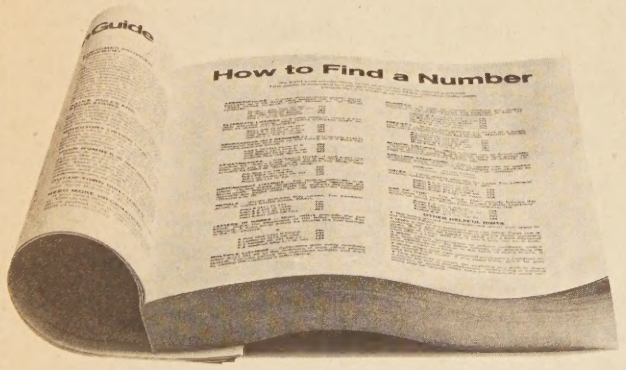
HARTFORD – The State Labor Department may force Connecticut state institutions to pay the state minimum wage of $2.31 an hour to hundreds of patients who work in those institutions, saya Salvatore Guzzardi, director of the department's minimum wage division.

Those patients now get anything from cigarettes to $29 a week. The Labor Department may press the minimum wage issue if it gets complaints, Mr. Guzzardi said.

Efforts to force the Federal minimum wage on public institution were blocked by the United States Supreme Court, according to Mr. Guzzardi, but that ruling does not affect the states' minimum wage laws.

He interprets the law to mean that a patient who volunteers for a job need not be paid, but one who is paid something does come under the minimum wage law.

"I don't know if the attorney general's office agrees with my interpretation," Guzzardi said. "I think my job is to rule in favor of the working people," he added.



DIRECTORY TIP:

Some numbers are tough to find in the telephone book. All you have to know is where to look. Saint James Hospital probably is St. James. The Brown Store would be listed under "B," not "T." For federal agencies, look under United States Government. There are lots of other tips in front of your telephone directory. Please check before you call Directory Assistance.
